The grand foyer chandelier of the theatre royal Drury Lane

REF: 11637

Height: 200 cm (78.7") Diameter: 120 cm (47.2")

A remarkable piece of London History.

Presumably hung in 1922 as part of the Refurbishment of the Theatre Royal Drury Lane that year. For nearly a century it lit the main foyer of the Theatre for what is presumed over 20,000 performances; from productions by Ivor Novello to modern classics such as Mis Saigon, My Fair Lady & 42nd Street.

200cm (79 inches) high, extendable to 300cm (118 inches)
120cm (47 inches) diameter.
